

Go Fishing at Kincaid Lake State Park

Kincaid Lake State Park overlooks Kincaid Lake, where one of the best populations of largemouth bass in Kentucky resides. Kincaid Lake is also known for bluegill, crappie, and channel catfish fishing.

Nearby, the South Fork of the Licking River can be float fished from Cynthiana downstream to Falmouth for smallmouth bass, rock bass, largemouth bass and spotted (Kentucky) bass. This stream is one of the best smallmouth streams in Kentucky. There are several canoe-entry and take-out sites along this stretch of South Fork. The South Fork of the Licking River is floatable during the spring and after heavy rains in the summer. Keep a watch for log jams and deadfall trees that may require portaging around.

Another float fishing venture can be taken on the Licking River from McKinneysburg downstream 13.6 miles to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources boat ramp at Falmouth. Smallmouth bass, spotted (Kentucky) bass, flathead catfish, channel catfish, panfish species, and freshwater drum can be caught in this section of river.

Kincaid Lake State Park has a campground for overnight camping and a boat ramp near Kincaid Lake Dam.
